TUTORIAL

TIPS FOR PREPARING FOR YOUR EXAMINATION

- Planned preparation increases your likelihood of passing.
- Start with a current copy of this Candidate Information Bulletin and use the examination content outline as the basis of your study.
- Read study materials that cover all the topics in the content outline.
- Take notes on what you study. Putting information in writing helps you commit it to memory and it is also an excellent business practice.
- Discuss new terms or concepts as frequently as you can with colleagues. This will test your understanding and reinforce ideas.
- Your learning will be most effective if you study frequently, for periods of about 45 to 60 minutes. Concentration tends to wander when you study for longer periods of time.

2. An injured employee (IE) presents for designated doctor (DD) examination 6 months following a work-related motor vehicle accident where he injured his neck. In addition to his initial left sided neck pain, he began experiencing left arm pain within two weeks of the injury.

The designated doctor’s evaluation shows scarring at the surgery site. Active knee range of motion is 0 to 110 degrees, varus and valgus stress tests are stable. IE does not require a cane, but does have a slight limp.

What is the whole person impairment rating?
A. 3%
B. 4%
C. 7%
D. 9%

5. The injured employee (IE) was working as a sales person, and while moving merchandise twisted her left knee, tripped and fell to the floor, landing on her left knee.

Left knee X-rays were performed and revealed no fractures. Physical therapy (PT) was prescribed, but after one visit the IE quit because of increased pain and swelling.

An MRI was done 4 weeks post injury and revealed a tear of the medial meniscus of the left knee. 6 weeks post injury she underwent an arthroscopic partial medial meniscectomy. She attended 5 visits of post-operative PT but had only slight improvement with continued pain. She returned to work 12 weeks post injury with standing, walking, stair climbing and weight bearing restrictions.

The designated doctor’s physical examination 16 weeks post injury reveals joint line tenderness, mild effusion of the left knee and a positive McMurray’s test. IE reports pain with prolonged standing or walking, and stiffness with occasional episodes of giving way. Left knee range of motion is 0 degrees to 80 degrees.

Which MMI certification is most appropriate based on medical records/history, the DD exam, and consideration of the ODG?
